

104-YEAR-OLD ANDALUSIA RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY; MRS. HANNAH SHIVE WAS NATIVE OF HILLTOWN TOWNSHIP

Had Resided for Many Years at Home of Mrs. Frederick Vandegrift—Was Keen of Sight and Interested in Current Affairs To the Last—Widow of Dr. Shive.

ANDALUSIA, Aug. 4.—“Aunt Hannah” Shive, Andalusia’s 104-year-old resident, died suddenly last evening at the home of Mrs. Frederick Vandegrift, Bristol Pike, with whom she made her home.

Mrs. Shive, who observed her 104th anniversary on February 28th last, was fairly active up to the time of her demise. Her lifeless body was found in a chair in her bedroom at the Vandegrift home.

Born at Ironhill, Hilltown Township, upper Bucks County, on February 28, 1839, she was the daughter of the late Enos and Louise Crossman Seiple.

The one who enjoyed her sewing and reading when well past the century mark, had had a full and enjoyable life, and her circle of friends was large. She had resided at the Vandegrift home here for many years.

In her earlier days Mrs. Shive was a dressmaker and a milliner, she learning her trade in Doylestown, and working there until her marriage to Dr. Shive. She was the former Hannah Seiple. For many years the Shives lived at Plains, near Wilkes-Barre, and for some time after the death of her husband Mrs. Shive resided with a niece, Mrs. Thomas Vaughn, West Philadelphia.

A follower of the Lutheran faith, Mrs. Shive was confirmed in the old Hilltown Lutheran Church, where preaching was in German. She spoke German fluently, and during her leisure time of recent years, sometimes while resting in bed,

State to Approve Single License Plate for Autos

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—Governor Martin today announced he will approve a Federal request to suspend a Pennsylvania law requiring two license plates on automobiles and permit use of one tag in 1944 to save metal.

The chief executive told his press conference this was the first such action asked under recently-enacted legislation empowering him to suspend or modify upon the request of Federal officials State laws interfering with prosecution of the war.

Final action will come, he added, after a meeting tomorrow of a legislative committee which has to pass on such requests. Suspension of the law was requested by U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Pennsylvania cars now carry two small tabs to save steel, but the Governor said they are “not very satisfactory,” and added, “we have had to replace 100,000 already.”

“We can save 600 tons of steel by using one plate next year,” he asserted, explaining the War Production Board would sanction release of enough material for making one tag. The lone plate will be carried at the rear of automobiles.

Martin also said he will turn down a Federal request to lease or sell to the United States the Pennsylvania Industrial School at Huntingdon for use as a military prison.

“We’ve made a survey,” he explained, “We won’t have sufficient room to take care of our prisoners, so we had to refuse it.”

ROOSEVELT’S PLEDGE IS “FALSE PATERNALISM”

Republican State Chairman,
Taylor, Says State Already Has Passed Legislation

ISSUES A STATEMENT

(Special to the Courier)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said today that President Roosevelt’s pledge of post-war aid to the nation’s armed forces smacked of “false paternalism” and reminded that while the Chief Executive was dealing in Fourth Term promises Pennsylvania’s state government, under Republican guidance, had already enacted legislation guaranteeing the post-war rights and privileges of returning heroes. Chairman Taylor also said that Pennsylvania’s social security system had always been two jumps ahead of the Federal program which New Dealers like to exploit as a personal beneficence of the President.

Mr. Taylor’s statement follows: “Pennsylvania Republicans have established an economic stabilization plan for the returning men of our armed forces long before the President, as part of the Fourth Term build-up, thought of discussing it. One might even say that the President’s promise of post-war aid to service men was a direct steal from the Republican program to underwrite the economic status of our fighting men.

“In the special session of 1942, Pennsylvania Republicans passed legislation to protect the Unemployment Compensation rights of any worker honorably discharged

TRANSPORT COMMAND READY, SECOND FRONT

Will Reinforce Allied Assault Forces, Continental Bridgeheads

PLANS ARE FLEXIBLE

(Following is the first of a series of articles describing the work of the Air Transport Command in the European Theatre.)

By Lowell Bennett
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Air Transport Command, the British and American organizations which will reinforce and supply Allied assault forces on continental bridgeheads, is today ready for the Second Front at a dozen points around the perimeter of Europe.

Headquarters of both British and American air formations have been set up and specially trained for their vital work at key locations in readiness for their share of the grand-scale attack, it was revealed today.

Most important of the headquarters are stationed in Britain, Syria, the Middle-East and North Africa. Subsidary headquarters are situated in areas between these main concentrations.

Aircraft, both troop-carrying and cargo-planes, have been dispersed to the focal points for action. A steady stream of fighter and bomber planes is being ferried from Britain and America to these areas, to build up the tactical reserve.

Large dumps of stores, fuel and ancillary supplies have been laid down to ensure a smooth turnover of reinforcement aircraft from rear bases to operational aerodromes when zero hour arrives.

Behind the vast and intricate organization necessary to such a force is the RAF and USAAF Transport Commands which work in the closest liaison both here and in the United States.

When I-Day (Invasion Day) arrives, and all indications are that it is now rapidly approaching, a long rehearsed system and schedule of operations will snap into action.

From that time until final success of the European attack, Transport Command will have three main duties and responsibilities.

First will be the replacement of operational aircraft, both fighters and bombers, in action areas. This will be carried out in conjunction with Fighter and Bomber Commands of the Allied air forces.

Ferry pilots will take planes from reserve pools well behind the bridgehead to areas immediately behind the front line. There they will be picked up by combat pilots

MEN FROM THIS AREA AID IN NIGHT PATROL OF DELAWARE RIVER; EACH GIVES 12 HOURS WEEKLY; PROTECT DEFENSE PLANT LOCATIONS

A number of men from lower Bucks County and the Trenton-Bordentown-Burlington section of New Jersey are devoting a portion of each week to night patrol along the Delaware River.

Those aiding in this war effort are members of the Trenton Flotilla, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, they giving 12 hours weekly to cruising along the banks of the Delaware where important defense plants are situated.

Sometimes they find a little “action”—an unauthorized water prowler, pieces of flotsam which might threaten navigation, a boat in distress.

These anti-sabotage patrollers—business men, plant executives, manufacturers, a jeweler, and men from other walks of life—turn into

STOCKHAM NAMED ON NEW COMMISSION

To Represent State On The Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission

FIRST MEETING HELD

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by an Act of Legislature at its last regular session, entered into a compact with a group of Atlantic States and became a member of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission. The Act fixed the members from Pennsylvania as three: one the Commissioner of Fisheries, the other a Member of the Legislature, who was also a member of the Commission on Interstate Co-operation, and the third to be appointed by the Governor.

The Honorable C. A. French and the Hon. Thomas B. Stockham are the two commissioners thus far appointed, with the Governor’s appointment yet unfilled.

The first meeting which the Pennsylvania Commissioners attended was in New York City on June 24th, and Mr. Stockham appeared for the Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania’s interest relates particularly to the fishing industry in the Delaware Bay and to a restoration of the shad and herring fishing industry in the Upper Delaware regions. Since the Susquehanna River drains into the Chesapeake Bay just below the State Line and is another very important and large water shed, the shell fish industry of the Chesapeake Bay is of a very material importance to Pennsylvanians as consumers through the whole Susquehanna Valley, Pennsylvania, therefore, has a very vital interest as a consumer state, and has entered into this compact with 14 Atlantic States.

An interesting feature of the meeting in New York was a discussion of the post-war problems in the protection of the American sea food industry because of the encroachment of the French, the Portuguese, and fishermen from the North Sea, whose ships just prior to the war had reached the Newfoundland banks and the coast of Maine. Their respective waters have been so thoroughly fished out by unrestricted operations as to make them even a hazard when they come to the American shores with seines of much smaller mesh than the American fishermen are using. The purpose of the larger mesh is to catch only the larger fish and to let the smaller fish through that they might grow for proper propagation.

The next annual meeting of the Commission will be held in Philadelphia in the latter part of September. Pennsylvania will be the host at that time.

Some Crop!

(By “The Stroller”)

Frank Messina started out to do some gardening last evening, and before he returned home he had gathered a nice crop—a $2,000 diamond ring, which was subsequently exchanged for a $50 bill.

Messina, who resides at 915 Spring street, has a garden in Bristol Township. Last evening he left for the plot, planning to do some work there. When he reached a point on Magnolia Road he saw a large number of people searching the ground, and inquiries brought the reply that a valuable diamond ring had been lost.

Looking down at the ground, Messina spied the prized piece of jewelry, and said: “Here’s your ring.” The delighted owner, A. Stewart, of Highland Park, promptly rewarded Messina with a $50 green-back.

Messina is an employee of Manhattan Soap Company.

water detectives by training in navigation, seamanship, code, gunnery, boat handling and first aid. They attend classes at their headquarters in Trenton, a building turned over to them by the Trenton Yacht Club for the duration of the war.

In normal times they would be cruising down the Delaware River to both Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, but this is war and those who are doing their bit for Uncle Sam in the coast guard auxiliary are draft-deferred or over the military age limit. Their love of boating prompted the formation of a unit of the auxiliary some eight months ago for just such an emergency as the anti-sabotage patrol or any other wartime duty they may be called upon to perform.

TEACHER SITUATION IN BUCKS IMPROVES

Only 24 Vacancies Exist at Present Time in County

SPECIAL CERTIFICATES

Some improvement is shown in the teacher employment situation in Bucks County, according to Bucks County superintendent of public schools, Charles H. Boehm. It is stated that at present there are only 24 vacancies existing in the county schools.

Normally about 565 teachers under jurisdiction of Bucks County school board are employed.

Some of the rural school boards, said Mr. Boehm, have adopted resolutions and are getting permission of the county superintendent to employ teachers granted special war-time certificates. These are issued by the county superintendent, and are good only for the duration.

However, before the county superintendent can issue them, the boards must take the preliminary steps and notify the State Department of Public Instruction of their action.

The certificates will be granted to teachers who have had out-of-state certificates or who have attended teacher training schools or colleges, but who did not meet all of the teaching requirements for Pennsylvania certification. Mr. Boehm stated this morning that he

Mr. Stiles stated at a meeting of the Bristol Defense Council, last night, that he now has messenger service organized in the area outside of Bristol. He gave a brief resume of what he plans to do in soliciting the services of boys for this work. At the conclusion of the meeting he met with a group of men to further discuss the idea.

The Defense Council met in the Municipal Building with William H. Fine presiding and Harold Hunter serving as secretary.

It was stated by Franklin Wallin, controller, that the control center staff is having exercises about every three weeks. These exercises are outlined by the State Defense Council.

John E. Healey, chief air raid warden, and John S. Lynn, chief of emergency police, both reported that a survey among the wardens and the police showed that in the opinion of these groups there is not sufficient scrap to conduct another scrap drive.

It was reported that the sixth sector is the first to call for the allotment of helmets.

It was reported that the stirrup pumps are to be placed in certain houses where they will always be available in cases of emergency.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

AVON PARK, Fla., Aug. 4.—Aviation Cadet John E. Cherubini, of Bristol, Pa., today moved a step nearer the wings of a pilot in the Army Air Forces with his graduation from the 61st Flying Training Detachment here. He is the son of Mrs. Leon Cherubini, of 112 Mulberry street, Bristol, Pa.

Only a short time ago he was a rookie in the Pre-Flight Pilot School at Maxwell Field, Ala. With the successful completion of this course of instruction, he was sent to the primary flying school at Avon Park.

Here he received his first training at the controls of an Army airplane. Under direction of civilian flying instructors of long experience, carefully checked by flying officers of the Air Force, his instruction began in one of the slow, sturdy primary training ships. From a novice, he has now been trained to where he can do elementary flying and acrobatics.

From Avon Park he has been transferred to a Basic School for training in the faster and more powerful basic trainers. With the completion of this course, he will be sent for advanced training to one of the numerous advanced flying fields of the Southeast Training Center. There he will learn to fly the speedy AT’s, and then receive further specialized training on the type of ships which he will finally fly in combat.

It’s a long road from dodo to flying officer, but he’s well on his way.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

OWI Should Be Reformed

Washington, Aug. 3.

PROBABLY the broadcast last night from Algiers of Mr. Elmer Davis would have been more effective had not the OWI, of which he is the head, been so recently discredited. As Mr. Davis had nothing important to say, perhaps it would have been better for him to have said nothing.

AS IT WAS, his comments on the foreign situation served to recall the very mortifying disclosures concerning his agency, of last week, which forced the President publicly to rebuke and repudiate its output on the fall of Mussolini, which he characterized as unwise, injurious and dangerously misleading. And since Mr. Roosevelt’s blast it has been revealed that the State Department regards the OWI as having been inept and unwise in its interpretation of foreign policy; that the army has been indignant and distressed at the nature of some of its propaganda; that instead of confining itself to the truth it has been dealing in lies. By its own admission, it is untrustworthy, faking names and creating fictitious personalities, into the mouth of which it has been putting its unsound and ill-considered views.

CONSIDERING OWI’s denunciation of the enemy propaganda as false and the blatancy with which it has proclaimed its own purity, it is a mortification to Americans to find our own people practicing deceit. In addition, as Mr. William Shirer charges, it completely muffed the greatest propaganda opportunity of the entire war. Add these things to Mr. Roosevelt’s rebuke and it all forms a pretty strong indictment. Certainly, it discloses OWI as about the worst administered, poorest manned and least elevated of all the war agencies. It is not surprising that the

KINETIC ENERGY AT WORK

Everyone who has taken a course in physics will remember the simple experiment to demonstrate kinetic energy. Several balls, each contiguous to the next, are suspended by strings. When the outer ball on one end is drawn back and permitted to fall against its neighbor, the ball on the other end bounces out in a similar arc.

A sample of this kind of transferred energy is being provided in Europe today. The impact of the Allied blows on Italy runs right through Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. Stockholm says that the downfall of Italy precipitated a quarrel between King Boris and Premier Filoff as to who is responsible for the Bulgarian hook-up with the Axis.

Recriminations in Hungary are heard also. Unconfirmed reports say that Budapest has put out peace feelers and that the Hungarian cabinet has met several times to discuss a new policy.
Rumania's attitude toward recent events is shrouded in silence, but since that country was reported in a state of unrest before the Italian debacle, it can be assumed that it is in a ferment, too. Mere possession of those oil fields, which supply Hitler with one-third of his petroleum, is sufficient to make Rumania a main target for British and American bombers.

Good old kinetic energy. Even the heavy ball on the very end of the Axis, Germany, has been moved perceptibly, and a few more jolts should send it flying high, wide and handsome.

THE SEASON OF POLO

This is the season for the start of infantile paralysis epidemics.
Preliminary indications have caused the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to fear that 1943 may be one of the worst years yet for this dreaded disease.
During the first six months of 1943, there were 1,084 cases reported from 42 states, compared to a ten-year average of 841 for the period.

The Foundation places the peak of each year's outbreak between mid-August and mid-September and has issued the following suggestions, which it urges all parents to observe:

1. Avoid extreme fatigue from strenuous exercise. Avoid sudden chilling as would come from a plunge into cold water on an extremely hot day.
2. Keep children away from large groups.
3. Call a physician at the first sign of any illness.
4. Don't become hysterical if cases occur in the neighborhood. During an epidemic many persons become infected with the virus, but only a small proportion are made ill. In a still smaller proportion, the illness is accompanied by muscular weakness or some degree of paralysis. Not more than one individual out of every 3,000 to 4,000 has a paralytic attack.

Farmers should not be blamed if they doubt the effectiveness of a plan that proposes sending a bunch of bridge players out some afternoon to get in the hay.

Men From This Area Aid In Night Patrol of Delaware

This unit is one of the 18 in the Fourth Naval District comprised of about 1,700 men and more than 700 coast guard vessels, mostly converted by the government. Often these men find themselves aboard boats they owned before the war. Members of the flotilla work in pairs while on duty, while other members of the crew snatch a few winks before their turn to take over the watch. They sign up for duty for the following week at the regular Thursday night meetings through Frank M. Bates, operations officer, of Bristol, who also is junior commander of the flotilla. He keeps a chart of the various "tricks," as the patrols are called, and a chart which shows time served by the various members. To keep up the present schedule it is necessary for some men to do double duty.

does not expect it will be necessary to issue more than 12 of such certificates.

Springfield township has been the first in the county to take this step. Owing to the fact that it cannot procure regularly certified teachers it is planning to employ teachers granted these emergency certificates.

Mr. Boehm announced that J. H. Herring, Lambertville, N. J., formerly supervising principal of the schools in Portland, has been employed to serve as supervising principal of New Hope high school. He will succeed Clyde M. Davis, who has become an executive of a firm in Lambertville.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

suggestion has been revived that our foreign propaganda ought to be operated by the Office of Strategic Services under military control and in strict conformity with the policy of the State Department. This was the desire of the joint chiefs of staff ten months ago, but the President decided with Mr. Robert Sherwood, who heads the OWI foreign division, and Mr. Davis, who, officially, heads Mr. Sherwood.

THE POINT has now been reached where a good many think that to permit the present management of the OWI to continue in full charge of our foreign propaganda until another break is made is to incur a national risk that should not be taken. From now on, what we say abroad is going to be increasingly important and future blunders may be very much more damaging than the one which stirred the President into sharp protest. If these personal OWI friends of the President are to continue in their jobs, there should be some control by the military authorities and some way of compelling harmony with the State Department. Certainly they should be disabused of their notion that they are empowered to originate foreign policy instead of just executing it.

IT IS ridiculous to place the blame on "irresponsible underlings" and again use the defense that the heads of the OWI organization did not know anything about what was being done. If they do not know what is being done, what are they there for? And if they are not to blame for the "irresponsible underlings" who is? The incompetency here is at the top as well as at the bottom and in between. Mr. Roosevelt, himself, has made it clear that the present arrangement is working badly and that reform is needed. Where does all this leave Mr. Davis, now in Africa after gathering information and speaking at testimonial luncheons during a visit to London?

JUST BEFORE Congress cut his appropriation Mr. Davis threatened to resign. Even if Mr. Davis should make good on that threat, of which there is slight chance, it would be only a partial solution. The real solution is to recognize that psychological warfare and physical warfare are closely linked; that the former is secondary only to the latter, but, obviously, should be under its direction. To be effective, psychological warfare and physical warfare must be in complete harmony and under one direction. It has not been in complete harmony and it is not under one direction. It is the job of the President to bring about both these things. He himself has made clear the necessity. It is not likely that Congress will rest calmly when it reassembles if this situation remains unchanged, with the same gentlemen in charge.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

With the advance reputation of being one of the hardest-hitting romantic dramas ever filmed, "This Land Is Mine" stars Charles Laughton and Maureen O'Hara at the head of a distinguished cast of screen favorites in an overwhelming story of Nazi occupation, at the Grand today.

Dudley Nichols, noted author and scenarist, and Jean Renoir, outstanding French director, collaborated on the details of writing, producing and directing this brilliant film. Said to give the first authentic picture of conditions in the occupied countries today, the film presents its realistic story in a village that is obviously European but with English street names and shop signs—a deliberate effort to avoid naming the precise locale.

which might be anywhere in France or Belgium or Denmark, opens today at the Ritz.

RITZ THEATRE

From the world's least known war front, China, comes one of the most exciting movie stories of the year, "Night Plane From Chungking." The stars are Robert Preston and Ellen Drew.

Although Ruth Terry, "the Cup-Cake Girl," has never taken a singing lesson in her life, she is reckoned among Hollywood's finest warblers—as will be heard when "Youth On Parade" comes to the Ritz Theatre for a two-day run.

Have a "Coke" = Come, be blessed and be happy

... or how to break the ice in Iceland

"Come, be blessed and be happy", says the hospitable Iclander when he meets a stranger. That's a warm way of putting it, but no more friendly than the way American soldiers say it. Have a "Coke", says the Doughboy, and it works in Reykjavic as it does in Rochester. The pause that refreshes is the friendly way to say "Hi, pal" in any language. All over the globe Coca-Cola has become the gracious ice-breaker between kindly-minded strangers.
